This copyright has been secured, by direction of the Joint Committee on Public Printing, to prevent the issue of pirated editions (incorrect or imperfect) for sale. The newspaper press is welcome to copy so much of the Directory as may be desirable, but any one who may republish the work for sale will be liable to prosecution for infringement of the copyright. Copies of this and of subsequent editions can be ordered at the Public Printing Office on payment of the cost of printing.

The second edition of the Directory for the present session will be issued early in January, and the compiler hopes that he may be able to make it correct. He is directed by the Joint Committee on Public Printing to request the members of Congress to revise their statistical sketches and to strike out all biographical matter. The information desired is only what is strictly in answer to the following questions: The Senator or Representative's full name; home post office address; place and time of birth; early education; collegiate education, if any, with date of graduating; professional studies; profession or business; all public offices held, with dates; vote on last election to Congress; the name of opponent and the vote given him; and the politics of each.

Members of Congress will add their residences in Washington, giving the number and the avenue or street, (each house in the city now having a number, which is more explicit than vague directions,) and will also add or correct the customary references denoting what ladies of their families will be in Washington. The * designates those whose wives accompany them; the § designates those whose daughters accompany them; the || designates those having other ladies with them.

Senators and Representatives will receive their quotas of this edition, in December, at the folding-rooms of the Senate and of the House.

THE HISTORY OF THE

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

BY

WILLIAM F. BAKER

The history of the United States of America is a story of the growth of a great nation from a small colony of English settlers in 1607 to a powerful republic in 1776. The story is one of the struggle for freedom and the establishment of a government of the people. The early years of the colony were marked by the struggle for survival against the elements of nature and the hostility of the Indians. The settlers were driven to the sea by the need for food and the desire for a better life. They found a new world of opportunity and a new way of life. The struggle for freedom was a long and hard one, but it was worth the effort. The result was a great nation, a nation of the people, a nation of freedom.

THE CAPITOL.

The Capitol fronts the east, and stands on a plateau ninety feet above the level of the Potomac, in latitude  $38^{\circ} 55' 48''$  north and longitude  $77^{\circ} 1' 48''$  west from Greenwich.

The southeast corner-stone of the original building was laid on the 18th of September, 1793, by President Washington, aided by the freemasons of Maryland. It was constructed of sandstone from an island in Aquia creek, Virginia, painted white, under the direction of B. S. Hallett, and afterwards of B. H. Latrobe, architects. The north wing was finished in 1800 and the south wing in 1811, a wooden passage-way connecting them. On the 24th of August, 1814, the interior of both wings was destroyed by British incendiaries, but they were immediately rebuilt. In 1818 the central portion of the building was commenced under the architectural superintendence of Charles Bulfinch, and the original building was finally completed in 1827. Its cost, including the grading of the grounds, alterations, and repairs, up to 1827, was $1,746,718 33.

The corner-stone of the extensions to the Capitol was laid on the 4th of July, 1851, by President Fillmore, Daniel Webster officiating as orator of the day. Thomas U. Walter was architect, and subsequently Edward Clark, under whose direction the work was completed in November, 1867. The material used for the extensions is white marble from the quarries at Lee, Massachusetts, with white marble columns from the quarries at Cockeysville, Maryland.

The dome of the original central building was constructed of wood, but was removed in 1856 to be replaced by the present stupendous structure of cast iron, which was completed in 1865. The entire weight of iron used is 8,009,200 pounds.

The main building is three hundred and fifty-two feet four inches long in front and one hundred and twenty-one feet six inches deep, with a portico one hundred and sixty feet wide, of twenty-four columns on the east, and a projection of eighty-three feet on the west, embracing a recessed portico of ten coupled columns. The extensions are placed at the north and south ends of the main building, with connecting corridors forty-four feet long by fifty-six feet wide, flanked by columns. Each extension is one hundred and forty-two feet eight inches in front, by two hundred and thirty-eight feet ten inches deep, with porticoes of twenty-two columns each on their eastern fronts, and with porticoes of ten columns on their ends and on their western fronts. The entire length of the building is seven hundred and fifty-one feet four inches, and the greatest depth, including porticoes and steps, is three hundred and twenty-four feet. The area covered by the entire building is one hundred and fifty-three thousand one hundred and twelve square feet.

The dome is crowned by a bronze statue of Freedom, modelled by Crawford, which is nineteen feet six inches high, and which weighs 14,985 pounds. The height of the dome above the base-line of the east front is two hundred and eighty-seven feet eleven inches; the height from the top of the balustrade of the building is two hundred and seventeen feet eleven inches; and the greatest diameter at the base of the dome is one hundred and thirty-five feet five inches.

The rotunda is ninety-five feet six inches in diameter, and its height from the floor to the top of the canopy is one hundred and eighty feet three inches.

The Senate chamber is one hundred and twelve feet in length, by eighty-two feet in width, and thirty feet in height. Its galleries will accommodate one thousand persons.

The Representatives' Hall is one hundred and thirty feet in length, by ninety-three feet in width, and thirty feet in height.

The Supreme Court room was occupied by the Senate until December, 1860, the court having previously occupied the room beneath, now used as a law library.

The Library of Congress was burned by the British in 1814, and was partially destroyed by an accidental fire in 1851. The present centre hall was finished in 1853, and the wing halls were finished in 1867.

POSTAL RULES.

Many errors occur by persons not observing the following regulations in depositing letters, papers, or miscellaneous publications (not franked) for mailing:

All drop letters must be prepaid, two cents, by postage stamps.

Prepayment by stamps required on all letters to places within the United States.

Full prepayment by stamps required on all transient printed matter, foreign and domestic.

An impression seems to prevail that letters for Georgetown require only two cents, or local rates of postage. Georgetown being a separate office, full prepayment by three-cent stamp is required.

All matters conveyed by mail westward beyond the western boundary of Kansas, and eastward from the eastern boundary of California, except one newspaper to a bona fide subscriber, and franked matter, must be prepaid at letter rates.

Valuable letters for any part of the United States, Canada, Great Britain, Holland, the Italian States, or States of the German-Austrian Postal Union, will be registered on application at the office.
